

...another Light Bulb Moment

Did you know that many dog "behavior problems" are actually medical issues (such as chemical imbalances, pain, or disease) which can cause behavioral changes in your canine friend? Treating these kinds of health-related behaviors as "obedience" issues will not solve the problem, or help your dog. Be sure to get the whole story by having any necessary examinations and testing done. Talk to your veterinarian about any concerning behaviors you observe in your dog right away!

Learning Environment Genetics Self

. . . it ALL matters